STATUTORY WAYS OF OBTAINING THE CERTIFICATE OF UPPER SECONDARY QUALIFICATION

By virtue of statutes, the qualification certificate may be obtained in one of three ways:

- 1. The qualification may be completed as upper secondary vocational education and training, where the studies primarily take place at an educational institution. The education and training also include practical studies at the educational institution as well as studies at a workplace with a scope of at least 20 credits. The qualification certificate is awarded by the education provider with a licence granted by the Ministry of Education to provide education and training.*
- 2. The qualification may be completed as a competence-based qualification, where vocational skills are assessed regardless of the way they have been acquired. The qualification certificate is awarded by the Qualification Committee appointed by the National Board of Education.*
- 3. The qualification may be completed as apprenticeship training. In this case, 70–80% and 30–20% of studies take place at a workplace and at an educational institution respectively. The student has a fixed-term contract of employment. The qualification certificate is awarded by the education provider or by the Qualification Committee.*

Additional information

Learning outcomes are evaluated by sector at a national level either on the basis of sampling or so as to cover all students. The National Board of Education is responsible for the national evaluation of learning outcomes. The statutory qualifications requirements for teachers in upper secondary vocational education and training are a higher education degree and pedagogical studies with a scope of 35 credits. In addition, teachers in vocational studies are required to have three years of work experience in a corresponding field. A more specific description of the education system can be found in the Appendix.
